
ORANGE BLOSSOMS.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the Pro-Cathedral yesterday, the contracting parties being Mr. W. Bate and Miss L. M. Limeburner (second daughter of Mr. J. M. Limeburner, of the Centennial Hotel). There was a full choral service at the church, Mr. Bate being an old and esteemed member of the choir. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dean Selwyn. The bride looked charming in white floral silk and real orange blossoms with white hat to match, carrying a handsome bouquet of white carnations and roses, the gift of the bridegroom, Mr. Byrne acting as best man. The bride was given away by her father. There were two bridesmaids in attendance, Miss A. Limeburner and little Miss Dumbrell, Miss Limeburner being attired in silk zephyr and primrose trimmings, also carrying a bouquet of cream roses and carnations. Miss Dumbrell was dressed in white silk, and carried a basket of beautiful flowers. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Dumbrell, Dean and Mrs. Selwyn, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Bate, Mr. and Mr. John Bate, Mr. and Mrs. O. Gee, Mrs. Reavley, the Misses Gordon, and many others. At the wedding breakfast, which was served up at the residence of the bride's parents in Newcomen-street, the principal toast was proposed by the Rev. Dean Selwyn, to which the bridegroom responded in a happy speech. The presents were both numerous and costly, as will be seen by the following list:—Handsome silver teapot, silver breakfast urn and butter knife, from the Pro-Cathedral, choir; silver teapot, Mr. Foster, grandfather of the bride; handsome drawing-room suite, gift of bride's father; cutlery, gift of bride's mother; cut-glass flower stands, Miss A. Limeburner; set of jugs, Mrs. E. Dumbrell; silver butter dish, Miss Macartney; biscuit barrel, Mr. M'Outcheon; silver serviette rings, Mr. Douglas; silver monogram serviette rings, Mr. John Bate; silver jam dish and spoon, Miss Waddingham; set of carvers, Mr. Byrne; fruit stand and salt cellars, Miss Barraok; glassware, Mr. E. Bate; cheese-stand and breakfast urn, Mrs. Gee; silver butter knife and salts, Miss Burns; fruit and flower stand, Misses Campbell; glassware, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Reavley; pair china salts, Miss May Cory; handsome picture and serviette ring, Mr. Jas. Bate; table linen, Mrs. Tom Ingall; drawn-thread tray-cover, Miss Brabham; table linen, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce; traycovers, Miss Gordon; ornaments, Miss Foster. The bride and bridegroom left for Sydney by the 6.30 train for Sydney en route to Bowral.
